Practical Examination Description

1. The examination is prepared and administered by the ACBSP.
2. The examination has been developed to assess analysis and performance of skills critical to the chiropractic sports physician. The test is designed as an objective structured clinical examination; as such the candidate will rotate through multiple stations. Testing stations will include simulated patients and candidates will assess patients trained to manifest illnesses or injuries common to athletes.
3. The ACBSP offers at least one official testing date per year. Determination of test sites is based upon applicant distribution and administrative considerations.
4. Upcoming test dates will be posted on the ACBSP website, <https://acbsp.com> or are available by contacting the ACBSP National Office.
5. The ACBSP reserves the right to relocate and/or cancel an examination administration at one or more test sites for any legitimate reason due to circumstances beyond its control.

Practical Examination Grading

Grading of this examination is determined by the number of accurate responses on checklists designed for each station.

Candidates must pass all stations to successfully complete this examination. Grades will be given as pass/fail. Failing grades will list stations failed. Candidates failing 1-6 stations must repeat these specific stations at the next practical examination.
